NOTES ON SOME OF THE DESCENDANTS
OF
JOSEPH KELLOGG OF HADLEY.

LIEUT. JOSEPH KELLOGG was in Farmington, Conn., prior to 1653. He joined Farmington Church, 9 Oct., 1653, from thence he removed to Boston, about 1654, where he bought a Homestead, thence in 1661, to Hadley where he remained until his death. His Will was dated 1707, and the Inventory of his estate was taken 4 Feb., 1708. He came perhaps from Essex County, England, where the name Kellogg is found in the old Parish records of Braintree and the adjoining Parishes of Bocking, Bradwell and Cressing. He was a cousin (perhaps a nephew) of Nathaniel Kellogg of Hartford, (prior to 1639, who d. at Farmington in 1657, see Will of Nathaniel, dated 4 June, 1657, and Inventory taken 21 Dec., 1657). He was in Hadley in 1661, as appears from a lease to Joseph Kellogg of the Ferry to Northampton. This lease was renewed from time to time, and seems to have been of some value to the Kellogg family, for it remained in their hands until 1758, and then passed to Stephen Goodman who m. Joanna Kellogg, dau. of James, and great-grand-daughter of Joseph Kellogg. His house in Hadley was the last on the west side of the old street at the south end, the corner south of the south road leading into the great meadow. The landing for the Northampton Ferry was not far from his house.

In those days all able-bodied men, over the age of sixteen, were required to serve as soldiers. He was appointed a Sergeant, September, 1663; Ensign in 1678; Lieutenant in 1679; and retained his command until 1692. In King Philip's war he was in the bloody fight with the Indians at Turners Falls, 19 May, 1676, in charge of the Hadley contingent of 18 men, 4 of whom were killed. The whole English force did not exceed 160 men, of whom 38 were killed, including the Commander, Capt. William Turner, and many were wounded. It was estimated that more than 140 of the Indians were killed. He was one of the Trustees of the Hopkins Grammar School at Hadley; and was one of the select men of Hadley in 1665-74-77-79-81-85-92.

APPENDIX V.—PEDIGREE OF KELLOG OR KELLOK.

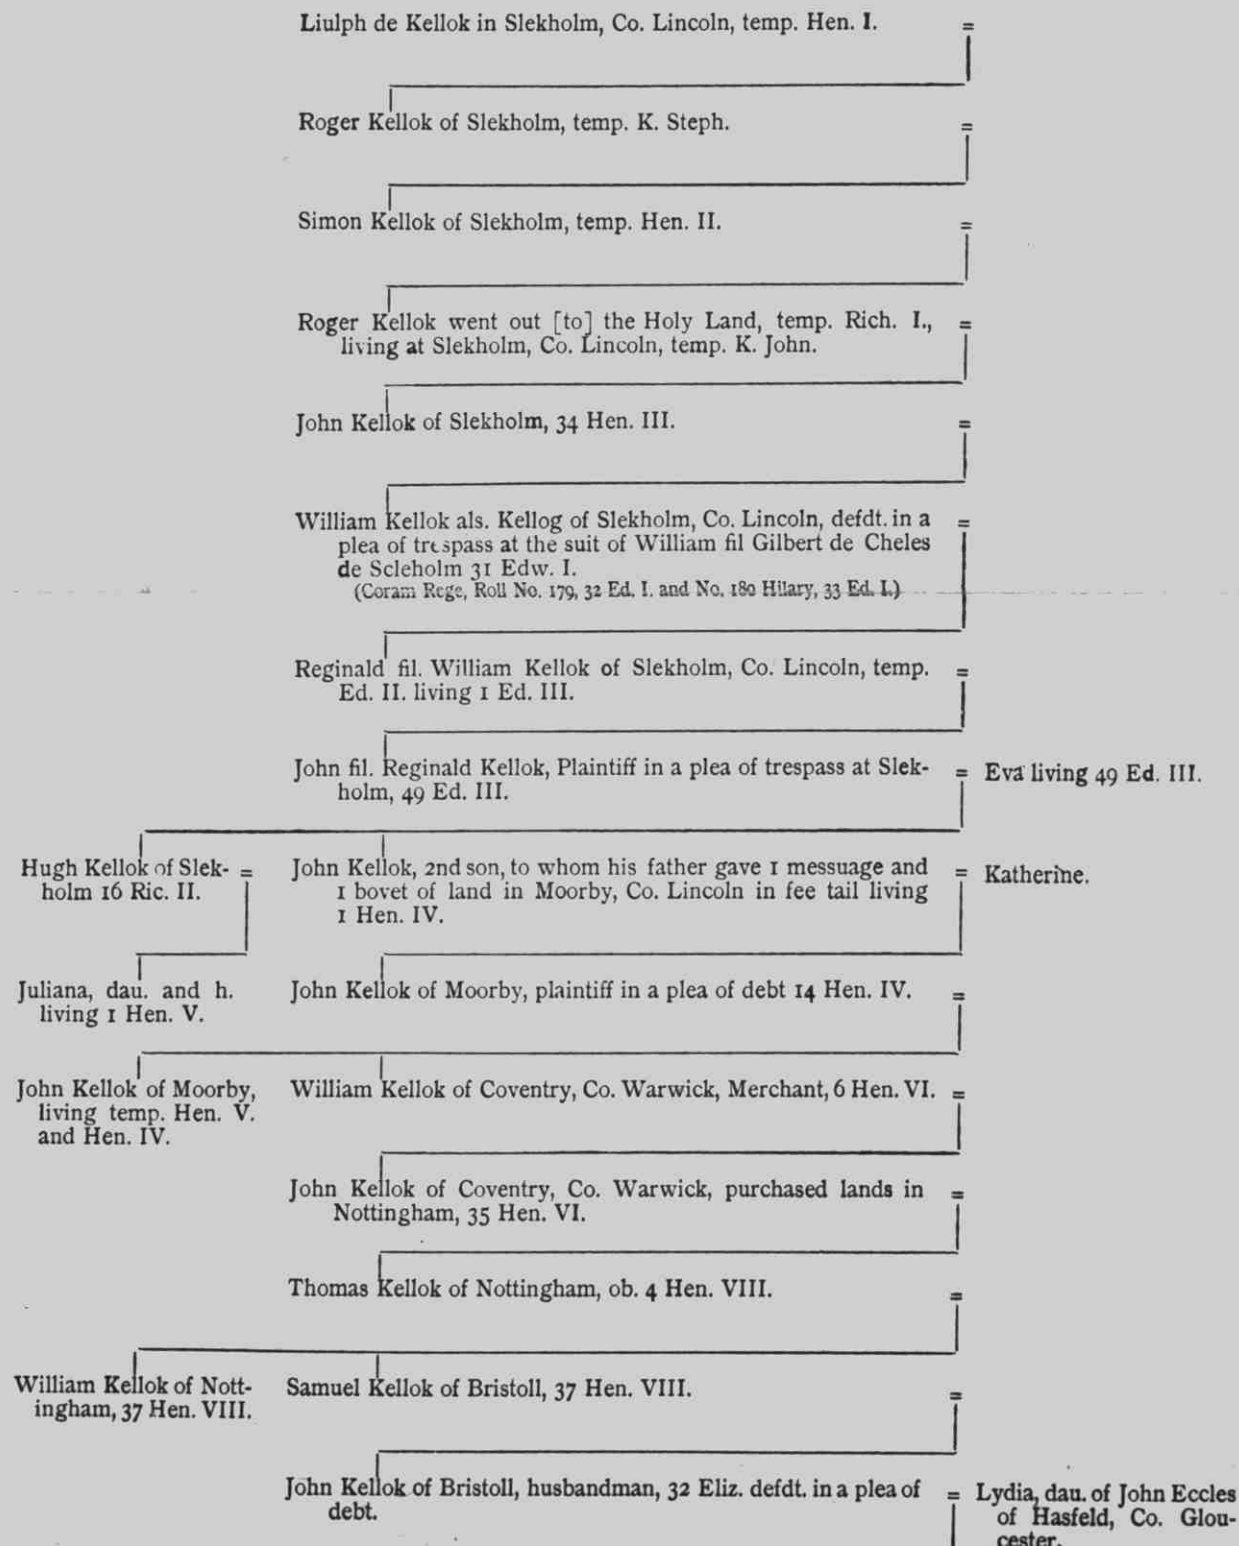

I have copied this Kellogg Pedigree from the Harrison Manuscripts in the Public Record Office in Chancery Lane. It seems to be the record of an old family of small landholders, who have gone down in the world, until at last, they sold their lands and removed to New England. I print it just as I found it and decline to accept any personal responsibility in the matter.

London, 5 July, 1898.

[These arms are described in Gen. Harrison's MS. as: "Sable on a Pile arg. a cross patée gu." but the drawing given does not correspond to the description, which latter is possibly in error.]

APPENDIX V.—PEDIGREE OF KELLOG OR KELLOK.

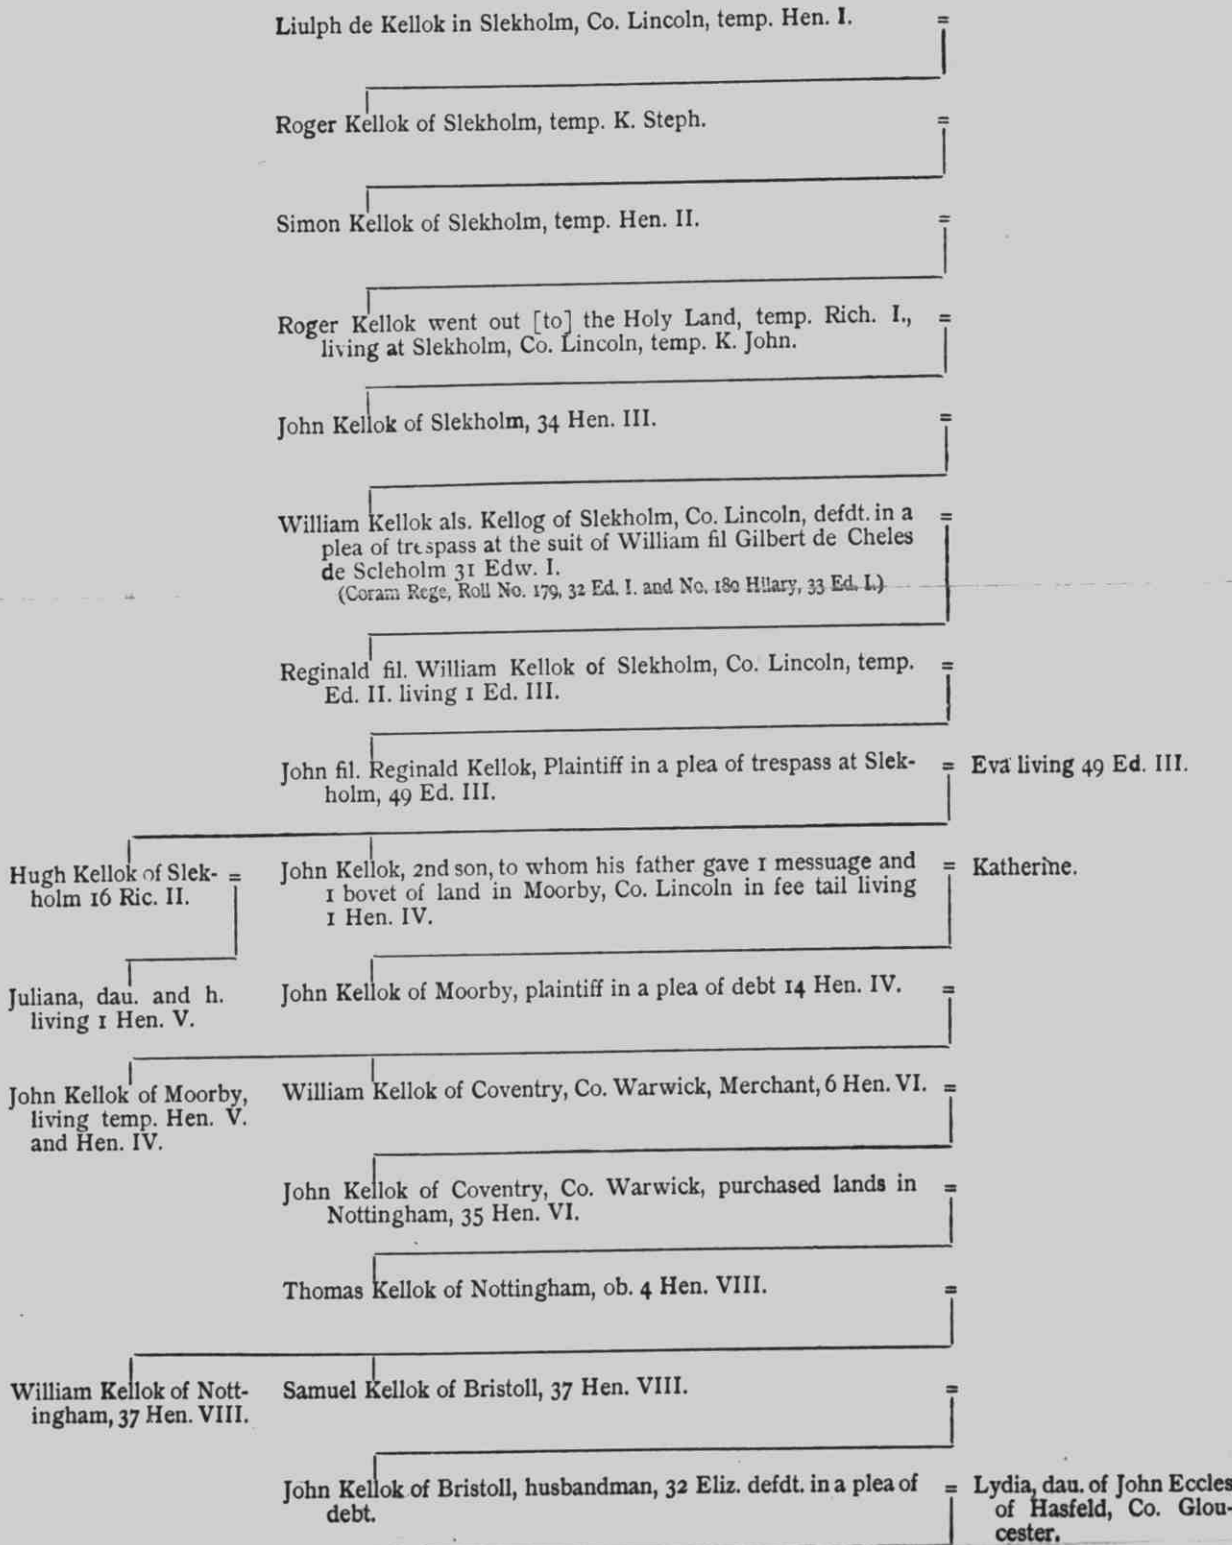

I have copied this Kellogg Pedigree from the Harrison Manuscripts in the Public Record Office in Chancery Lane. It seems to be the record of an old family of small landholders, who have gone down in the world, until at last, they sold their lands and removed to New England. I print it just as I found it and decline to accept any personal responsibility in the matter.

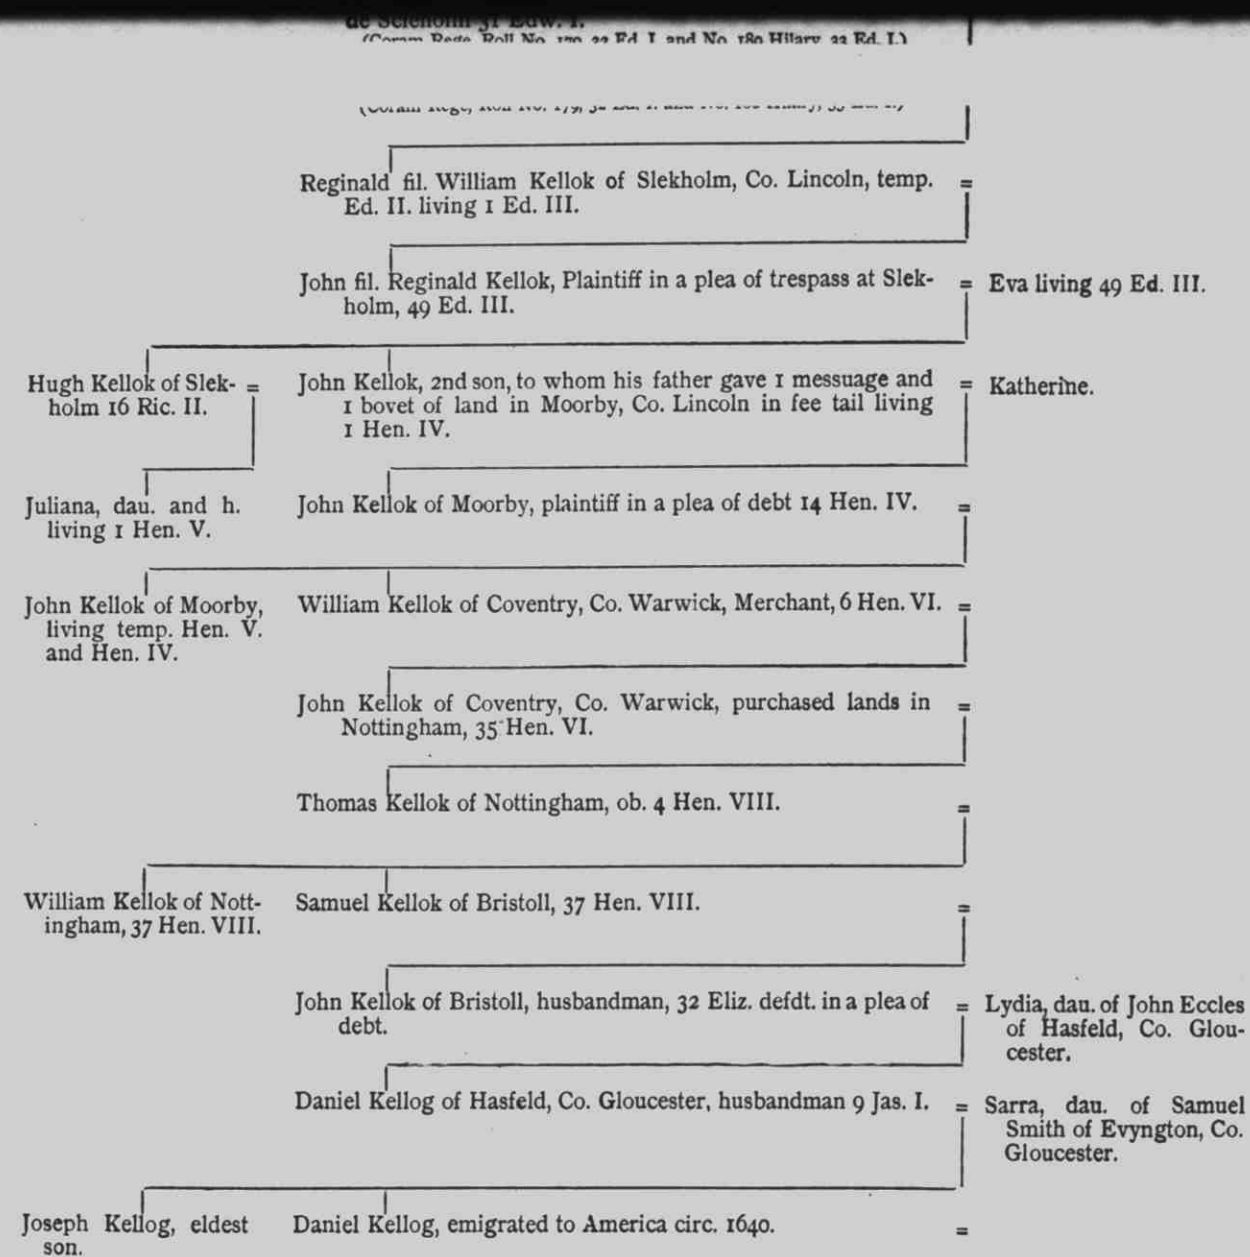

London, 5 July, 1898.

J.P.K.

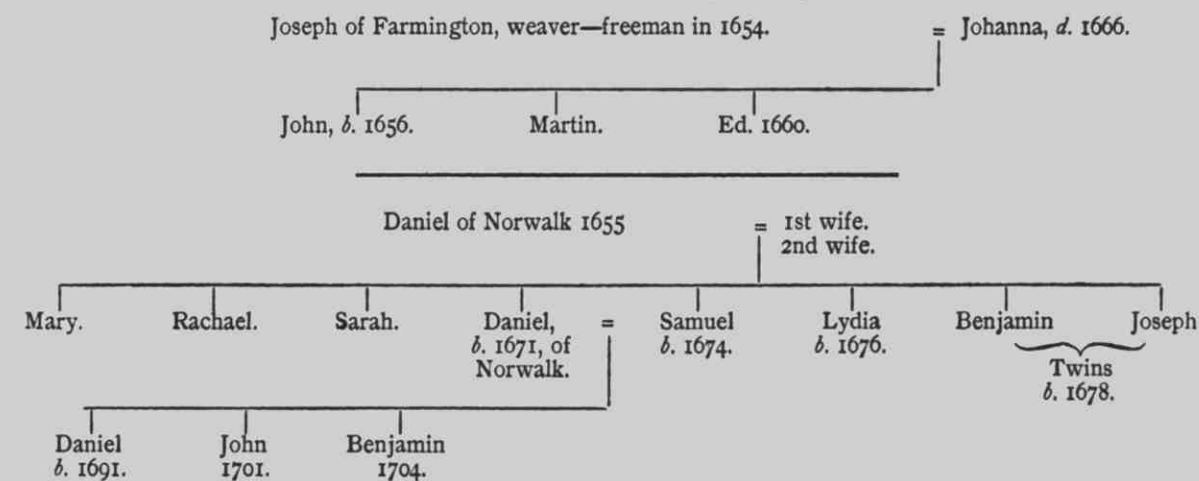

Sa. on a pile argent a cross crosslett fitchée gu.

KELLOGG, from Savage's Dicty.

Harrison MSS 576, 577, 578, vol. XXVIII. The date of this vol. is 1887. Another pedigree is given in vol. IV, p. 1108, of the same MSS., dated 1871. It contains the first ten generations practically identical with those given here. A crest is also given in this version, but has been crossed out, together with the first four generations, and also the seventh and tenth generations—the reason of this does not appear. The crest is:—out of a mural coronet or a cubit arm erect holding a cross crosslett gu. No authority is given for either crest or arms, but no doubt they were taken from seals attached to some of the deeds referred to.
